WORLD | ALL

Long ago there was a bad prince called Prince John.
He lived in a castle.
He had lots and lots of gold.
Prince John loved his gold.
He even slept with it.

But Prince John wanted more gold.
He sent for the Sheriff.
"The poor people still have a little gold left," he said. "Take it!"

The poor people had to give their last gold coins to the Sheriff.
Then they had no money to buy food.

But the poor people had two friends called
Robin Hood and Little John.
They lived in the forest.
Robin and Little John did not like the prince.
They knew he took money from poor people.

Robin and Little John thought of a way to help the poor people. They sneaked into the castle when Prince John was sleeping. They sneaked out of the castle with some of his gold.

Then they gave it back to the poor people. Everyone was happy again.

Realizing that we are culpable should allow the Spirit's conviction to draw us into the realization that we are actually capable.
